RE: REQUEST FOR RETRACTION AND CLARIFICATION

Dear Mr. Williams:

The undersigned is counsel for the National Association of Mortgage Field Services, Inc. ("NAMFS"). It has come to the attention of NAMFS that you, on your website foreclosurepedia.org, have published numerous articles that are highly critical of the mortgage field services industry, including NAMFS and members of NAMFS.

It goes without saying that you have the right to publish your opinions of the industry, NAMFS and its members, provided that you do not engage in libelous statements about any of these targets.

However, you have recently included in your criticisms statements that seem to encourage criminal acts including attacks on not only NAMFS, its employees and members, but also their families. I cite to the following from your website (http://foreclosurepedia.org precalculated-failure-order-mills/):

> "Find out where they go to church. CALL THEIR PASTOR, PRIEST OR RABBI! Find out where their kids go to Cub Scouts and call the Troop Leaders. Find out where the wife, husband, girlfriend or boyfriend work. Contact their employer. If they rent contact the landlord. File a bad credit claim with Equifax and TransUnion. Sick bill collectors on them. Take out a full page ad in their newspaper (generally about $175 on a slow news day) with their photo and put the whole family in it with a bunch of starving Ethiopians and state your case and why they really are child abusers because you now cannot feed your family. Target the Employees and NOT the owner. The employees are far more vulnerable than the owners!"
